

Salvia clevelandii ‘Winifred Gilman’
Cleveland Sage

Shrub

Sun

Little summer water

Origin: California

Winifred Gilman is an outstanding selection of Cleveland Sage. It is a very aromatic plant which many people associate with a hike in the mountains. It can be used as a substitute for culinary sage. It grows three to five feet tall forming a rounded evergreen shrub. In late spring flower stalks rise above the foliage and produce whorls of violet blue flowers. The flowers later dry to an attractive chocolate brown. Cleveland Sage prefers hot dry climates with fast draining soil and little summer water. Place it near a walkway or in a pot so the leaf scent can be enjoyed.
